

SUICIDE CHARGE FOR MAN SHOT ON WOMAN'S LAWN

Detective Gets Warrant for Bender—Mrs. Barber
Leaves Her Home.

Detective Edward L. Brennan of Morris County, N. J., obtained a warrant to-day for Peter K. Bender, charging him with attempted suicide. Meanwhile Mrs. Bernice La Rock Barber, divorced wife of George Saxton Barber, nephew of the late President McKinley, has left her home, near Dover, N. J., where Bender shot himself on her front lawn early Saturday morning.

Mrs. Barber has steadily refused to see reporters and has not called on Bender, who is recovering at the Dover General Hospital.

George Barber Saxton married Bernice La Rock at Plushing, L. I., in 1906. Ten years later each was suing the other for divorce and it was the husband who got the decree. An important part of the evidence he produced was the testimony of a Japanese butler who said that while he was polishing a glass he used it as a mirror and saw a reflection of Mrs. Barber kissing Charles B. Geisenhainer, son of former Congressman Jacob Geisenhainer of New Jersey. This same evidence enabled Geisenhainer's wife to get a divorce, in which Mrs. Barber was named a co-respondent. It was immediately after the Geisenhainer divorce that Barber sued for his. The Japanese butler also told of serving cocktails to Mrs. Barber and Geisenhainer in a bedroom of the Barber town house at No. 34 West 59th Street.

Mrs. Barber asked for $100 a week alimony pending the trial, but she did not get it. She still owns an estate that Barber gave her at Succasunna, N. J., and it was there that Bender shot himself.

A note written on visiting cards found in Bender's pocket will be part of the evidence in support of the charge of attempted suicide. The note says:

"The reason of this selfish no-hearted woman, who believed when only shown she knew I loved her and could not live without her. In every letter she led to me and cheated. My last words, I love you and only you. Suffering (another word which may be broken hearted.) PETER."

Mrs. Barber, a widow, left home on account of the affair, and an elderly woman there, when told that another young woman had called at the hospital to see Bender, said:

"Well, Mrs. Barber hasn't gone to see him; she's sore at him."

The woman who called at the hospital and begged every one in authority for special permission to visit Mr. Bender gave her name as Nadine Rosenberg and her address as the Reconstruction Hospital, New York, where she is night supervisor of nurses.

Mr. Bender, she said, was the closest friend of her cousin's husband, whose name was Klidnitzki. She said she had met Mr. Bender and Mrs. Barber at the home of this same cousin when Mr. and Mrs. Klidnitzki lived at No. 119 West 127th Street.

When informed a note had been found in Bender's pocket indicating he was desperately in love with Mrs. Barber, Miss Rosenberg shrugged her shoulders and while her eyes filled with tears, said softly:

"She has beautiful eyes."

"Mr. Bender is all alone in this country," Miss Rosenberg told those who asked about her interest in the injured man. "I am from his country. It is dreadful to be all alone in a strange country. I do not know his business nor where he lives when he is not travelling. He calls me up sometimes at the hospital."

Since he has been in the Dover Hospital and prior to the strict orders to permit no visitors, one man was allowed to visit Bender. The name of the man was Lamst, according to information given by Miss Rosenberg. What Miss Rosenberg did not state, however, was that immediately after his visit to Bender in the hospital Mr. Lamst paid a visit to Mrs. Barber at the Oaks.

Bender Had Asked for $1,000 Loan From Family.

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—Relative of Peter Bender, member of the Bender Real Estate Exchange, say they have not heard from him in several days. He asked for a loan of $1,000 which he was going to bet on the horses with a man unknown to them, and was refused. One thinks some other man may be impersonating his brother.

He said the family in Detroit had received no advice from New York or New Jersey authorities. He said the family had had some real estate dealings with a Mrs. H. D. Barber of California.

Radium cannot be picked up in pieces on the surface of the earth, nor is it found in veins or layers. Only through the laborious process of liquefying, filtering and distilling carloads of ore, not once, but dozens of times, are the precious particles secured.

McCreery does not lower its prices by taking off a few dollars here and there on its goods, nor does it radically reduce one line of merchandise and profit upon others. Every article on our counters, in our show windows, on our shelves and in the stock rooms is reduced in price not once, but each time its wholesale market price falls.

This means that no matter what, how or when a patron purchases, she secures the best value obtainable.
